"One of the reasons I love Soave is that — when made by top producers such as Inama — the wines over-deliver. The region is still trying to recover from its reputation of dilute innocuous wines. As a result, the prices remain depressed despite the leap in quality. Take this one for example. Inama is a consistently great producer. Foscario vineyard is one of Soave's top sites, and it comes from old vines. No wonder the wine is stunning. And for $23, even more stunning. It has good weight with a lava-like minerality and refreshing acidity. It's a perfect choice for grilled swordfish."
