vinous

The 2019 Susumaniello Askos mixes peppery herbs with woodland berries and smoke to create an understated yet very pretty bouquet. Its silky textures flow effortlessly across the senses, riding a wave of cooling acid and mineral tones, and hints of blackberry come forward more toward the close. The 2019 tapers off persistent and lightly structured, leading me to believe that a year or two of cellaring may reveal an even deeper expression.
