Forbes

While there is so much great Prosecco, Franciacorta and other sparkling wine from Italy these days, Piedmont's Alta Langa is lesser known in the states. This winemaker helped achieve the DOCG designation (signifying the highest quality) to distinguish the wines for the region. Named for the god Odysseus, this Metodo Classico 80% Pinot Noir/20% Chardonnay drinks like a much more expensive Champagne. (This winemaker's Barolo is pretty special too.) $38
