Rich, dark red berries, exotic spices, citrus and a dusting of confectioners sugar waft up from the seductive 2018 Rosso Mandrone di Lohsa. There are depths of silky textures contrasted by cool-toned red and black fruits that elegantly flesh out across the palate, with hints of mocha and vanilla resonating throughout. The 2017 is a bit of a showboat, but it's balanced by tart berries, minerals and spices, as well as a framework of crunchy tannin. This blend of 85% Cabernet Sauvignon to 15% Carignano and Petit Verdot from the Maremma is ready to please.
