This precious dessert wine pours from its little 500-milliliter bottle with super thick and glossy intensity. The 2013 Vin Santo del Chianti Rufina makes a big impact on the senses, first for its glycerin-rich texture and second for its large span of aromas; there is maple syrup, candied almond, melted honey, sweet tea leaf and a hint of rose or fragrant flower buried somewhere within. Compared to the I Veroni Vin Santo, this one from Selvapiana tastes a little bit sweeter. It ages in small barrels called "caratelli" for nine years. Only 4,000 bottles were made.
