This is a contrast to the Foscario bottling. This is stonier, tenser and more demur. Like all great wines, it's compressed and revealing little in its youth. Notes of spiced quince, lemon rind, camphor and salted almonds. Salty wines are all the rage, and there is plenty of phenolic salinity as well as obvious acidity packed into this. A ripple of energy drives the long and convincing finish. A brilliant Soave. A true mountain wine. Drinkable now, but best from 2025.
