The stems in Teodoro are very ripe, so the estate uses 60% whole clusters to make their Barolo Riserva and holds it in bottle another five years before release. A saturated red color, the 2016 Barolo Riserva boasts notes of cherry liqueur, licorice, crushed rocks, and black truffle. Medium-bodied, it has more depth and rich concentration on the palate, with ripe tannins and a seamless structure. Balanced and harmonious, it's really starting to show its character and is going to be a cellar-worthy wine for the next 20 or more years.
