A dusting of clove and cinnamon gives way to dried roses and balsamic black cherries as the 2019 Amarone della Valpolicella Campo dei Gigli smolders up from the glass. Elegant in style, it presents silken textures and vividly ripe red and black fruits that slowly saturate, all complicated by a mass of grippy tannins toward the close. More savory than sweet, the 2019 leaves the palate wrapped in youthful tension through the long and structured finale as hints of dark chocolate linger. Harmonious in every way, it is geared up for cellaring.
