Campo dei Gigli is a single site in Mezzane di Sotto, where vines are 45 years old and soils are limestone-rich and well structured, amplifying concentration. The nose is intensely fragrant with lilac and supercharged blueberry fruit, just kept from exorbitance by grounding tones of earth and leather. On the palate it is fluid, lucid and lovely, the blueberry fruit diaphanous and lilting as it wends its way through the svelte oblong of the mid palate, firmly corseted by taut ribs of tannin. Blueberry and lilacs linger on indefinitely, accompanied by a wash of coffee from tonneau maturation, all vibrating with acidity. There is high-wire tension here, bound together by almost surreal aromatics.
