Vietti Derthona Timorasso Colli Tortonesi DOC - 2018

Forbes

My white Wine of the Week today, the Vietti Derthona Timorasso 2018, is the very first vintage that the great Piedmontese producer has ever released of Timorasso. If this highly successful bottling is any indication, it most certainly won't be their last.

Aromas of apricot stone and yellow nectarine are joined by floral notes, lime, and lime blossom. On the palate this shows lively, exuberant autumn apples, a hint of lemon oils and pith, fennel bulb, and mashed hard pears. The finish is lifted with a touch of lemon blossom and honeysuckle. Fascinating: It vacillates between semi-aromatic and more earthy in character, all of it beautifully balanced with acidity. Mouthwatering and complex, and a fantastic addition to the already impressive Vietti portfolio.
