The 2017 Löwengang Chardonnay lifts from the glass in a rich and sweet display of tropical fruit and citrus with white flowers, orange blossom and a hint of raw honey. It's medium-bodied and elegant to the core, lifted by vibrant acids and saline-minerality, while leaving a hint of vanilla bean that lingers on and on. This is so perfectly balanced and poised yet still showing the textural heft of its barrel fermentation, coupled with the old vines that produce this fruit. You could lose the Chardonnay Löwengang in your cellar for the medium term or enjoy it now on its extroverted aromatics and suave character.
