WINE STORY

Vulcaia Fumé was the first wine produced by Inama in the 1970s. It was their idea that to showcase the quality of the terroir of the Soave Classico they would produce a wine from a well-known grape variety, Sauvignon Blanc. It was an instant success and became a bit of a cult favorite. Today, the winery focuses on Soave Classico, but continues to produce the Vulcaia Fumé, which has a strong showing in restaurants throughout Italy. The label is from a book by Daniele Bardaro, featuring the drawings of Andrea Palladio of the Berga Theater in Vicenza.
